

In the United States Court of Federal Claims

DEE MONBO,

Plaintiff,

v.

THE UNITED STATES,

Defendant,

No. 24-cv-1683

Filed: March 19, 2025

ORDER

Plaintiff Dee Monbo, appearing pro se, initiated this post-award bid protest action in October 2024, challenging two Solicitations as part of the General Service Administration's OASIS+ procurement. Defendant moved to dismiss this action, citing multiple, independent reasons why this Court lacked jurisdiction over Plaintiff's claims—one of which is that Plaintiff is debarred from contracting with the United States. Before she filed this protest, Plaintiff initiated a challenge to her debarment by the United States Department of the Navy in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia under the Administrative Procedure Act. Since lodging this action, Plaintiff has filed numerous motions seeking to stay her case before this Court or to stay her deadlines to respond to Defendant's Motion to Dismiss, claiming the difficulties of litigating multiple, self-initiated cases at the same time. This Court has already denied one such motion on the merits, and directed Plaintiff to timely respond to Defendant's Motion to Dismiss.

Most recently, the day of her deadline to respond to Defendant's Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiff moved to amend her Complaint to add (i) new details about why she is an interested party, and (ii) a new count for de facto debarment. Pending before the Court are Plaintiff's Motion to Amend and two Motions to Stay. As explained below, Plaintiff's Motions to Stay and Motion to Amend are DENIED. Plaintiff fails to demonstrate hardship associated with litigating multiple cases at once, a key element in determining whether a stay is appropriate. As several judges of this Court have recognized, Plaintiff is a sophisticated litigant, who is no stranger to handling a large docket. Indeed, in the last seven years, Plaintiff has filed 37 cases in federal courts, including eight cases since June 2024 in this Court alone. This Court must also deny Plaintiff's Motion to Amend, as Plaintiff's new interested party arguments and de facto debarment claim are futile.

BACKGROUND

On October 17, 2024, Plaintiff Dee Monbo, appearing pro se, filed her Complaint in this post-award bid protest. Complaint (ECF No. 1) (Compl.). Plaintiff, an individual federal contractor, protests the General Services Administration's (GSA or Agency) award of two solicitations stemming from the OASIS+ procurement (the Solicitations). Id. ¶¶ 1–4, 17–21; Compl., Ex. 4 (ECF No. 1-2) at 17 (Bid Confirmation).¹ The first solicitation is Request for Proposal No. 47QRCA23R0002, which is a 100% set-aside for Section 8(a) businesses. Compl. ¶ 17. The second solicitation is Request for Proposal No. 47QRCA23R0005, which is a 100% set-aside for women-owned small businesses (WOSB). Compl. ¶¶ 15, 17.

I. Plaintiff's Claims

Plaintiff alleges that she submitted joint proposals with her “collaborative partner, [Monbo Group International, Ltd.] MGI.” Id. ¶¶ 1, 11; see id., Ex. 3 at 14–15 (ECF No. 1-2) (Collaboration Agreement). Plaintiff contends that she and Monbo Group International, Ltd. (MGI) “agree[d] to pool their resources” to pursue the two Solicitations at issue. Compl. ¶ 11. As such, Plaintiff and MGI—who Plaintiff asserts “are two separate federal contractors”—allegedly agreed to share the “profits, losses, costs, and risks” associated with their venture. Id. ¶¶ 10, 12. Plaintiff further contends that because of the Agency’s actions, she has personally “lost an opportunity to earn profit.” Id. ¶ 16. While Plaintiff claims that she and MGI jointly submitted the bids to the Agency for the two Solicitations, the proposal submitted only named MGI as the bidder. Id. ¶ 15; see also Bid Confirmation at 17 (email noting that MGI’s bid was received by the contracting officer).

Plaintiff’s Complaint includes three Counts. First, that the Agency’s decision to not award her a contract under the WOSB set-aside lacked a rational basis because her joint proposal (i) “is one of the superior proposals submitted” and (ii) “offered a Highly Competitive Price and Met the Minimum 36 Qualifying Credits.” Compl. ¶¶ 24–28 (emphasis omitted). Second, that the Agency’s decision to not award Plaintiff the WOSB set-aside contract was arbitrary and capricious because Plaintiff’s joint proposal complied with the Solicitation. Id. ¶¶ 29–32. Third, that the Agency’s decision “not to consider” both of Plaintiff’s proposals under the Solicitations, while also directing Plaintiff to extend her proposals to a later date without conditions, lacked a rational basis. Id. ¶¶ 33–35.

II. Procedural History

Defendant moved to dismiss Plaintiff’s Complaint on December 17, 2024 pursuant to Rules 12(b)(1), 12(b)(6), and 41(b) of the Rules of the United States Court of Federal Claims (Rule(s)). Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 14) (Mot. to Dismiss). Pursuant to Plaintiff’s request, this Court granted Plaintiff 60 days to respond to Defendant’s Motion, setting February 18, 2025 as her response deadline. See Order, dated Nov. 12, 2024 (ECF No. 12) (Scheduling Order); Joint Status Report (ECF No. 11). Since November 12, 2024, when this Court entered the parties’ requested briefing schedule for Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiff has filed four motions seeking to stay the entire action or otherwise suspend her deadline to respond. See ECF Nos. 15, 16, 20, 21.

First, on January 17, 2025, Plaintiff filed a Motion to Stay the case, explaining that she had filed a case in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia (District Court) challenging her debarment under the Administrative Procedures Act (APA), and needed time to focus on that case. See Emergency Motion to Stay Pending Resolution of the Administrative Procedure Act Case (ECF No. 15) (First Motion to Stay) at 1–3; Monbo v. U.S. Dep’t of Navy, Case No. 24-cv-2547 (D.D.C. Aug. 30, 2024) (APA Challenge). Defendant opposed Plaintiff’s First Motion to Stay on January 31, 2025, and Plaintiff filed her Reply on February 7, 2025. ECF Nos. 18, 19.

Second, on January 21, 2025, Plaintiff filed a Motion to Suspend her deadline to respond to the Motion to Dismiss until after the Court ruled on her Motion to Stay. Motion to Suspend Due Date (ECF No. 16) (Motion to Suspend). The Court denied Plaintiff’s Motion to Suspend two days later. Order, dated Jan. 23, 2025 (ECF No. 17). Third, on February 10, 2025, Plaintiff attempted to file a Second Motion to Stay, which the Clerk of Court flagged as deficient, and this Court accordingly rejected the same day. Order, dated Feb. 10, 2025 (ECF No. 20). Fourth, also on February 10, Plaintiff filed a Third Motion to Stay. ECF No. 21 (Third Motion to Stay).

Finally, on February 18, 2025, rather than file her response to the Motion to Dismiss, which was due that day, Plaintiff filed a combined Motion for Leave to Amend her Complaint and for Leave to File Under Seal.² See Motion to Amend (ECF No. 22) (Mot. to Amend). The Motion attached a Proposed First Amended Complaint, which Plaintiff sought to file under seal. See ECF No. 22-1 (Proposed Amended Complaint); Mot. to Amend at 1. On February 21, 2025, the Court issued an Order denying in part Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend as it related to Plaintiff’s request to seal the Proposed Amended Complaint. Order, dated Feb. 21, 2025 (ECF No. 23) (Order Staying Response) at 4. The Court also stayed Plaintiff’s obligation to respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss pending resolution of her Motion to Amend. Id. at 2, 4. Defendant opposed Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend on March 4, 2025, and Plaintiff filed her Reply in support of her Motion to Amend on March 11, 2025. See Defendant’s Response to Plaintiff’s Motion for Leave to Amend (ECF No. 24) (Def. Amend. Resp.); Plaintiff’s Reply to Defendant’s Response to Plaintiff’s Motion for Leave to Amend (ECF No. 25) (Pl. Amend. Reply).

APPLICABLE LEGAL STANDARDS

This Court liberally construes filings by a pro se litigant. Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 94 (2007) (quoting Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 106 (1976)). While this Court allows ambiguities in pro se filings, it “does not excuse . . . failures” on the merits. Henke v. United States, 60 F.3d 795, 799 (Fed. Cir. 1995).

I. Motions to Stay

This Court’s authority to issue a stay is “incidental to the power inherent in every court to control the disposition of the causes on its docket with economy of time and effort for itself, for counsel, and for litigants.” Landis v. N. Am. Co., 299 U.S. 248, 254 (1936). Whether and for how long to stay proceedings are matters “within the sound discretion” of this Court. Groves v. McDonough, 34 F.4th 1074, 1079 (Fed. Cir. 2022); see also Cherokee Nation of Okla. v. United States, 124 F.3d 1413, 1416 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (“When and how to stay proceedings is within the sound discretion of the trial court.” (citing Landis, 299 U.S. at 254–55)). That discretion is not boundless, particularly where a stay is “immoderate or indefinite” or “protracted or indefinite.” Groves, 34 F.4th at 1080 (quoting Cherokee Nation, 124 F.3d at 1416).

“The proponent of a stay bears the burden of establishing its need.” Clinton v. Jones, 520 U.S. 681, 708 (1997). The proponent “must make out a clear case of hardship or inequity in being required to go forward.” Landis, 299 U.S. at 255. Then, the Court weighs “the need for the stay against the countervailing interests.” Cherokee Nation, 124 F.3d at 1418; see also Topsnik v. United States, 114 Fed. Cl. 1, 3 (2013) (“[A] court must exercise its own judgment to ‘weigh competing interests and maintain an even balance’ among those fulfilled by a stay and those frustrated by such action.” (quoting Cherokee Nation, 124 F.3d at 1416)).

II. Motion to Amend

Rule 15(a) permits a plaintiff to amend its complaint “once as a matter of course” if done within 21 days of service of (i) the original complaint, (ii) a responsive pleading, or (iii) a motion under Rules 12(b), 12(e), or 12(f). Rule 15(a)(1)(A)–(B). “In all other cases,” Rule 15(a)(2) permits a party to amend its pleadings “with the opposing party’s written consent or the court’s leave.” Rule 15(a)(2). The Rule further states that courts should “freely give leave when justice so requires.” Id. It is well established that the grant or denial of an opportunity to amend pleadings is “within the discretion of the trial court.” Datascope Corp. v. SMEC, Inc., 962 F.2d 1043, 1045 (Fed. Cir. 1992) (citing Zenith Radio Corp. v. Hazeltine Rsch, Inc., 401 U.S. 321, 330 (1971)). A court will typically grant a motion to amend absent (1) undue delay, bad faith, or dilatory motive; (2) undue prejudice to the party opposing the amendment; or (3) futility of the amendment. Mitsui Foods, Inc. v. United States, 867 F.2d 1401, 1403–04 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (“[T]he existence of such factors as . . . ‘futility of amendment’ may justify the denial of a motion for leave to amend.” (quoting Foman v. Davis, 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962))); see also Monbo v. United States, --- Fed. Cl. ----, 2025 WL 732990, at *6 (Mar. 7, 2025) (“A court may deny a motion to amend a complaint based on futility if . . . the claim added by the amendment could not withstand a motion to dismiss.” (quoting Island Creek Assocs., LLC v. United States, 172 Fed. Cl. 729, 742 (2024))).

DISCUSSION

Pending before the Court are Plaintiff’s First and Third Motions to Stay and Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend. For the reasons discussed below, each of Plaintiff’s pending Motions are DENIED.

I. Plaintiff’s Motions to Stay are Denied.

Plaintiff fails to meet her burden of demonstrating that denial of a stay will impose a hardship. Plaintiff’s First Motion to Stay dedicates only two sentences to her argument in support of a stay. First Mot. to Stay at 2. Plaintiff first makes a conclusory assertion that a stay of all proceedings “is necessary.” Id. Plaintiff then contends that, “[m]ore importantly,” a stay would “give the parties (i.e., DOJ and Plaintiff) time to focus their time and efforts on the pending APA [Challenge].” Id. While Plaintiff’s Third Motion to Stay contains reasoning to support her stay, Plaintiff largely focuses on the harm that she would suffer if forced to respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss and litigate multiple cases concurrently. See Third Mot. to Stay at 3–5.³ Plaintiff contends that she “should not be rushed into responding to the Motion to Dismiss” as litigating two cases at once will cause Plaintiff to “suffer[] hardship and [] irreparable injury.” Id. at 4; see also id. (“Compelling the pro se Plaintiff to respond to the Motion to Dismiss on or before February 28, 2025 would create a significant hardship for the Plaintiff who is a pro se litigant.”). Plaintiff also states that “a stay would not thwart Defendant’s rights” to the same degree as requiring Plaintiff to litigate her cases would harm her rights. Id.

The prospect of concurrent litigation itself is not a hardship. See Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *6 (“[T]he prospect of concurrent or additional litigation is not on its own a hardship.” (citing Brown v. United States, 131 Fed. Cl. 540, 543 (2017))); cf. Brown, 131 Fed. Cl. at 543 (“The court cannot agree that the possible need for additional briefing on the issue of liability constitutes a hardship that necessitates a stay of proceedings.”). Thus, Plaintiff’s sole purported hardship—that the deadlines in the instant action and in her APA Challenge conflict and do not allow sufficient time to litigate both cases—is no hardship. This Court has provided Plaintiff with ample opportunity to respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss, including granting Plaintiff 60 days—rather than the usual 30 days—to respond to Defendant’s Motion and granting a stay of her Response deadline pending resolution of Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend. See Rule 7.2; Scheduling Order at 1; Order Staying Response at 2. Defendant filed its Motion to Dismiss over four months ago, on December 17, 2024. See Mot. to Dismiss. Thus, Plaintiff has had ample opportunity to work on both her response to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss and her District Court APA Challenge.⁴

Further, Plaintiff’s concern about litigating multiple cases rings hollow as she is a sophisticated litigant who has initiated dozens of cases in multiple federal courts. See Monbo v. United States, No. 24-2083, 2025 WL 704402, at *1 & n.3, *7 (Fed. Cl. Jan. 24, 2025) (noting that Plaintiff “is a sophisticated party” and discussing other cases initiated by Plaintiff); Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *6 (same); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-1658, ECF No. 31, at 1 (Fed. Cl. Feb. 25, 2025) (same); see also Monbo v. United States, No. 25-325, ECF No. 10, at 3–5 (Fed. Cl. Mar. 12, 2025) (describing Plaintiff’s extensive litigation history, which includes filing 37 cases in federal courts in the past 7 years, and the dismissal of over 10 cases for lack of jurisdiction). Indeed, Plaintiff has filed 8 cases in this Court since June 2024.⁵ The Court will not permit Plaintiff's own actions to further hinder Defendant's and this Court's interest in resolving this litigation in a timely manner.

Finally, Plaintiff cannot establish that any anticipated District Court decision in the APA Challenge will significantly affect the disposition of this action. Indeed, Plaintiff's APA Challenge only challenges her personal debarment—not the debarment of MGI, with whom Plaintiff claims to have submitted a joint proposal. See, e.g., Mot. to Stay, App'x A (ECF No. 15-1) at 34–35 (seeking declaration that Plaintiff was improperly debarred and injunction “to remove the references to suspension or debarment from Plaintiff's name”); Compl. ¶¶ 1, 11; Collaboration Agreement at 14–15. Thus, even if Plaintiff were to prevail in her APA Challenge in District Court, MGI would remain debarred, and Plaintiff and MGI's joint proposal would remain ineligible for award because the proposal was submitted in MGI's name. Compl. ¶ 15; Bid Confirmation at 17; see FAR 9.405(a) (“Contractors debarred. . . are excluded from receiving contracts, and agencies shall not solicit offers from, award contracts to, or consent to subcontracts with these contractors.”). Accordingly, staying this case only works to hinder—rather than promote—judicial efficiency. In sum, Plaintiff fails to “bear the burden of establishing [her] need” for the stay. See Clinton, 520 U.S. at 708.

⁵ See Monbo v. United States, No. 24-890 (Fed. Cl. June 4, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-1179 (Fed. Cl. July 31, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-1368 (Fed. Cl. Sept. 3, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-1658 (Fed. Cl. Oct. 15, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-1683 (Fed. Cl. Oct. 17, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-2083 (Fed. Cl. Dec. 18, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 24-2139 (Fed. Cl. Dec. 27, 2024); Monbo v. United States, No. 25-325 (Fed. Cl. Feb. 20, 2025).

Even if Plaintiff's APA Challenge could somehow affect the outcome of this case, Defendant advances several alternative grounds for dismissal. See Def. Stay. Resp. at 2; Mot. to Dismiss at 13–22. These include arguments that (i) Plaintiff cannot proceed pro se on behalf of MGI under Rule 83.1; (ii) Plaintiff lacks Article III standing because she suffered no “injury in fact”; (iii) Plaintiff is not an interested party under 28 U.S.C. § 1491(b)(1); and (iv) Plaintiff's challenge is not ripe. Def. Stay. Resp. at 2; Mot. to Dismiss at 13–22. The outcome of Plaintiff's APA Challenge will have no effect on these threshold arguments and the Court finds little benefit in waiting for the result of the APA Challenge before the parties fully brief, and this Court decides, the long-pending Motion to Dismiss. See Landis, 299 U.S. at 255–57.

In sum, Plaintiff has failed to carry her burden of showing that a severe hardship or burden would follow from a denial of her Motions to Stay. See Clinton, 520 U.S. at 708. Accordingly, Plaintiff's First and Third Motions to Stay are DENIED.

II. Plaintiff's Motion to Amend is Denied.

Plaintiff's Motion to Amend is futile because it could not survive a motion to dismiss. Plaintiff seeks to amend her Complaint by adding a new section describing why Plaintiff is an interested party, as well as a new count for de facto debarment. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 1, 9–15, 41–47. While Plaintiff's original Complaint described Plaintiff as a sole proprietor and a “sought-after Expert” in government contracting who is known collaborator with separate government contractor, MGI, Plaintiff's Proposed Amended Complaint now describes Plaintiff as a sole proprietorship, a collaborative partner with MGI, a subcontractor of MGI, and an offeror of project manager services. Compare Compl. ¶¶ 1, 9–15, with Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 1, 9–19. Plaintiff, now purporting to be an MGI subcontractor, contends that she has standing under the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit's Decision in Percipient.ai. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 10–11 (citing Percipient.ai, Inc. v. United States, 104 F.4th 839 (Fed. Cir.), reh'g en banc granted, opinion vacated, 121 F.4th 1311 (Fed. Cir. 2024)). Plaintiff also seeks to add a claim for de facto debarment, alleging that the Agency constructively barred Plaintiff from contracting without going through the formal processes required to formally debar a contractor. Id. ¶¶ 9–15, 41–47.

Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend and Reply in support of her Motion to Amend include few substantive arguments to justify amendment. See Mot. to Amend. at 1–2; Pl. Am. Reply at 1–3. Her Motion to Amend, for example, simply notes that Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 15 provides that “[t]he court should freely give leave [to amend] when justice so requires.” Mot. to Amend. at 1 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2)); see Rule 15(a)(2) (mirroring language of Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(2)); see also Northrop Grumman Sys. Corp. v. United States, 137 Fed. Cl. 677, 681 (2018) (recognizing that Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a) and Rule 15(a) of this Court are identical).

Plaintiff’s proposed amendments are futile. “When a party faces the possibility of being denied leave to amend on the ground of futility, that party must demonstrate that its pleading states a claim on which relief could be granted, and it must proffer sufficient facts supporting the amended pleading that the claim could survive a dispositive pretrial motion.” Kemin Foods, L.C. v. Pigmentos Vegetales Del Centro S.A. de C.V., 464 F.3d 1339, 1354–55 (Fed. Cir. 2006)). To withstand a motion to dismiss, a plaintiff’s proposed additional claims and supporting factual allegations must at least “plausibly give rise to an entitlement to relief.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 679 (2009). First, Plaintiff’s attempt to add an assertion that she is a subcontractor is futile. A Plaintiff in a bid protest must demonstrate that it is an “interested party” to establish statutory standing under 28 U.S.C. § 1491(b)(1). Weeks Marine, Inc. v. United States, 575 F.3d 1352, 1359 (Fed. Cir. 2009). In her Proposed Amended Complaint, Plaintiff seeks to recast herself as an interested party because she is a subcontractor of MGI who offers project management services. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 9–10. Courts, however, “have consistently held that subcontractors do not have standing to bring a bid protest as an ‘interested party’” because “potential subcontractors are, by definition, not actual or prospective bidders.” Acuity-CHS Middle E. LLC v. United States, 173 Fed. Cl. 788, 799 (2024) (citing Am. Fed’n of Gov’t Emps. v. United States, 258 F.3d 1294, 1302 (Fed. Cir. 2001)); see also Distributed Sols., Inc. v. United States, 539 F.3d 1340, 1344 (Fed. Cir. 2008) (concluding that protestors are “not mere ‘disappointed subcontractors’ without standing”); MCI Telecomms. Corp. v. United States, 878 F.2d 362, 365 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (construing nearly identical definition of “interested party” under predecessor statute and concluding that an offeror who “deliberately chose to be only a subcontractor and not to submit its own proposal” could not achieve “prospective bidderhood”). Thus, Plaintiff’s new allegation that she was a subcontractor of MGI is futile.⁶

Second, Plaintiff’s de facto debarment claim fails to state a claim and, therefore, could not survive a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6). De facto debarment occurs when an agency

⁶ Plaintiff attempts to invoke the narrow exception described in the Federal Circuit’s now-vacated Percipient.ai decision. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 10–12. Even if not vacated, Percipient.ai’s holding was cabined to the facts of that case, where a plaintiff alleged a “violation of statute or regulation in connection with a procurement or proposed procurement” under 10 U.S.C. § 3453, without directly or indirectly challenging a solicitation. Percipient.ai, 104 F.4th at 853, 855–56. Plaintiff does not fit this exception because she directly challenges the two Solicitations. See id.; Compl. ¶¶ 1, 17.

Plaintiff also contends that Defendant is precluded from arguing that Plaintiff is not an interested party here based on an opinion from the District Court attached to Plaintiff’s Reply. Pl. Am. Reply at 2–3; Id., Ex. 1 (ECF No. 25–1) (D.D.C. Opinion). The D.D.C. Opinion dismissed a bid protest brought by Plaintiff in the District Court regarding a different solicitation. D.D.C. Opinion at 1–7. Plaintiff mischaracterizes the D.D.C. opinion, which does not conclude that Plaintiff is an interested party or that she has standing here. See D.D.C. Opinion at 5–6 (“[T]he Court need not decide whether Monbo is an ‘interested party’ to conclude that ADRA deprives it of subject-matter jurisdiction over her bid-protest claim.”), 7 (“[I]f Monbo’s suit belongs in any federal court, it belongs in the Court of Federal Claims.”); Pl. Am. Reply at 2–3. The D.D.C. Opinion did not rule on whether Plaintiff would have standing as a subcontractor. See D.D.C. Opinion at 5–7. As discussed above, that is the issue before this Court here: whether Plaintiff’s contention that she is an MGI subcontractor could withstand a motion to dismiss. Because it cannot, the proposed amendment is futile. See Kemin Foods, 464 F.3d at 1354–55; Mitsui Foods, 867 F.2d at 1403–04.

effectively precludes a prospective contractor from being awarded a contract without complying with the applicable debarment procedures in FAR Subpart 9.4. See Goodearth Distrib., LLC v. United States, No. 23-339, 2024 WL 247032, at *6 (Fed. Cl. Jan. 23, 2024) (citing TLT Const. Corp. v. United States, 50 Fed. Cl. 212, 215 (2001)); Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *14 (“A de facto debarment involves agency action that falls short of a formal ‘FAR subpart 9.4 . . . debarment [or] suspension.’” (quoting MG Altus Apache Co. v. United States, 111 Fed. Cl. 425, 443 (2013))). Plaintiff’s claim of de facto debarment rests on the assertion that GSA is making a “systematic effort . . . to reject all of the Plaintiff’s joint proposals (with MGI)” in violation of her due process rights and FAR 9.406-3. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶ 46 (citing CRC Marine Servs., Inc. v. United States, 41 Fed. Cl. 66, 84 (1998)). Plaintiff’s new claim, however, is undercut by Plaintiff’s formal debarment. Def. Amend. Resp. at 1–2. By definition, Plaintiff (and MGI) could not be de facto debarred, given that they are formally debarred and have received the required due process under FAR 9.406. See Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *2 & n.5,⁷ *14 (explaining that de facto debarment “involves agency action that falls short of a formal ‘FAR subpart 9.4 . . . debarment’” (quoting MG Altus, 111 Fed. Cl. at 443)); Bannum, Inc. v. Samuels, 221 F. Supp. 3d 74, 86 (D.D.C. 2016) (explaining difference between formal debarment, which involves the procedures laid out in FAR 9.406-3, and de facto debarment, which occurs when a contractor is barred “from receiving government business without invoking formal debarment proceedings”); IMCO, Inc. v. United States, 97 F.3d 1422, 1427 (Fed. Cir. 1996) (“[T]he process due a contractor facing a proposed debarment is satisfied by the procedures set out at [FAR] 9.406.”). Thus, the Agency’s rejection of Plaintiff’s allegedly joint bid with MGI was not the product of a systematic effort to reject Plaintiff’s proposals, but rather was the result of a formal debarment undertaken by the Agency.⁸

Even if not formally debarred, Plaintiff has failed to allege in her Proposed Amended Complaint (or otherwise) a pattern of rejections sufficient to establish a de facto debarment claim. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 41–47; see also Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *14 (noting that a plaintiff who fails to allege a pattern of rejections cannot establish de facto debarment claim) (citing Stapp Towing, Inc. v. United States, 34 Fed. Cl. 300, 312 (1995)). Plaintiff’s Proposed Amended Complaint is devoid of any factual allegations to support such a claim and instead merely concludes that “the agency’s conduct demonstrates that the agency will not award the Plaintiff’s winning joint proposal contracts.” Proposed Am. Compl. ¶ 47. Thus, Plaintiff’s explanation of how she has been de facto debarred is merely a “threadbare recital of a cause of action’s elements” that “is insufficient to withstand a motion to dismiss.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 663–64; Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 41–47.

⁸ Plaintiff also may not challenge her debarment directly here because this Court lacks jurisdiction to review the propriety of debarments. IMCO, 97 F.3d at 1425 (“The Tucker Act does not give the court jurisdiction to review the propriety of an agency’s decision to debar a contractor, however; such a challenge must be brought in district court under the Administrative Procedure Act”); Pl. Am. Reply at 3 (contending that Plaintiff’s debarment is improper). While this Court can review debarments “when the ‘challenged suspension was connected to the protested procurement because the suspension was imposed by the procuring agency,’” here, however, a different organization—the Navy—formally debarred Plaintiff, so she cannot challenge her debarment in the Court of Federal Claims via a protest of a GSA Solicitation. Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *11 (quoting MED Trends, Inc. v. United States, 101 Fed. Cl. 638, 650 (2011)). See IMCO, 97 F.3d at 1425; Pl. Am. Reply. at 3 (referencing debarment by the Navy); supra note 7 (listing exclusions by the Navy); Compl. ¶¶ 2–5 (protesting Solicitations issued by the GSA). Indeed, Plaintiff’s proposed claim for debarment here is not “properly raised ‘as a protest [ground] . . . , [but] as an isolated claim to nullify the debarment.’” Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *15 (quoting MG Altus Apache Co., 111 Fed. Cl. at 443). Thus, the Court lacks jurisdiction to hear Plaintiff’s proposed challenge to her debarment.

Finally, Plaintiff lacks standing to bring a de facto debarment claim. This Court applies the same standing requirements as those required by Article III courts. Starr Int'l Co., Inc. v. United States, 856 F.3d 953, 964 (Fed. Cir. 2017) (quoting Anderson v. United States, 344 F.3d 1343, 1350 n.1 (Fed. Cir. 2003)). “For a party to have standing, it must satisfy constitutional requirements and also demonstrate that it is not raising a third party’s legal rights.” Id. (citing Kowalski v. Tesmer, 543 U.S. 125, 128–29 (2004)). To establish Article III standing, “a plaintiff must show an injury in fact caused by the defendant and redressable by a court order.” United States v. Texas, 599 U.S. 670, 676 (2023) (citing Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560–61 (1992)). An alleged injury is redressable only if it is “‘likely,’ as opposed to merely ‘speculative,’ that the injury will be ‘redressed by a favorable decision.’” Lujan, 504 U.S. at 561 (quoting Simon v. E. Ky. Welfare Rights Org., 426 U.S. 26, 38, 43 (1976)).

Plaintiff’s alleged injury is not redressable by this Court. Plaintiff’s proposed de facto debarment claim seeks to end Plaintiff’s personal debarment. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 41–47; see id. ¶ 45 (“Here, the Agency has unlawfully de facto debarred the Plaintiff in violation FAR 9.406-3 and in violation of Plaintiff’s constitutional rights.”). Indeed, that is all she may challenge because Plaintiff, who is not an attorney and is acting pro se, cannot bring a de facto debarment challenge on behalf of MGI, a Maryland corporation. See Rule 83.1(a)(3); Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *1 (noting that MGI is a Maryland corporation). Rule 83.1(a)(3) provides that “[a]n individual who is not an attorney . . . may not represent a corporation, an entity, or any other person in any proceeding before this court.” Rule 83.1(a)(3). “Accordingly, ‘[a] corporation appearing before the United States Court of Federal Claims . . . must be represented by an attorney.’” Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *7 (quoting Balbach v. United States, 119 Fed. Cl. 681, 683 (2015)); see also Talasila, Inc. v. United States, 240 F.3d 1064, 1066–67 (Fed. Cir. 2001) (recognizing that previous version of Rule 83.1(a)(3), which provided that “[a] corporation may only be represented by counsel” was “clear and unqualified”). Indeed, two other judges of this Court have concluded that Ms. Monbo may not represent MGI pro se under Rule 83.1(a)(3). See Monbo, 2025 WL 732990, at *7–9; Monbo v. United States, No. 24-890, 2024 WL 5165707, at *5–7 (Fed. Cl. Dec. 19, 2024).

Further, even if Plaintiff could succeed on her proposed de facto debarment claim, MGI would remain debarred because Plaintiff only challenges her own de facto debarment. Proposed Am. Compl. ¶¶ 42–47. Indeed, as noted, she cannot challenge MGI’s debarment without an attorney. See Rule 83.1(a)(3). Thus, any relief from the Court would be tailored to Plaintiff’s alleged de facto debarment, not MGI’s. And so long as MGI remains debarred, the Agency cannot award the contract to MGI. See FAR 9.405(a) (“Contractors debarred . . . are excluded from receiving contracts, and agencies shall not solicit offers from, award contracts to, or consent to subcontracts with these contractors.”); IMCO, 97 F.3d at 1425; see also Assoc. Energy Grp., LLC v. United States, --- F.4th ----, 2025 WL 850043, at *4 (Fed. Cir. Mar. 19, 2025) (holding that protestor lacked Article III standing where it would not be eligible for award even if the Court granted protestor’s relief sought). Accordingly, Plaintiff lacks Article III standing.

* * * *

In sum, Plaintiff’s proposed amendments to her Complaint are futile because they would not withstand a motion to dismiss. See Mitsui Foods, 867 F.2d at 1403–04 (“[T]he existence of such factors as . . . ‘futility of amendment’ may justify the denial of a motion for leave to amend.” (quoting Foman, 371 U.S. at 182)); Kemin Foods, 464 F.3d at 1354–55 (“When a party faces the possibility of being denied leave to amend on the ground of futility, that party must demonstrate that its pleading states a claim on which relief could be granted, and it must proffer sufficient facts supporting the amended pleading that the claim could survive a dispositive pretrial motion.”). Therefore, Plaintiff’s Motion to Amend is DENIED.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the Court DENIES Plaintiff’s First Motion to Stay (ECF No. 15), Second Motion to Stay (ECF No. 21), and Motion to Amend (ECF No. 22). Plaintiff shall respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss by March 28, 2025. Given Plaintiff’s noted “emerging pattern of delay,” no extensions will be granted absent extraordinary cause. See Order Staying Response at 4.

The Court stresses to Plaintiff that she must respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss absent an Order issued by this Court indicating otherwise. See id. at 1–2 (explaining that filing of a Motion for Leave to Amend Plaintiff’s Complaint did not relieve Plaintiff of her duty to respond to Defendant’s Motion to Dismiss). Plaintiff is advised that failure to timely respond to the Motion to Dismiss will not only constitute a waiver of Plaintiff’s opportunity to rebut Defendant’s contentions that this Court lacks jurisdiction, but may also result in dismissal of Plaintiff’s case under Rule 41(b). See Claude E. Atkins Enters., Inc. v. United States, 899 F.2d 1180, 1184 (Fed. Cir. 1990)); see also Cerf v. United States, 621 F. App’x 651, 652 (Fed. Cir. 2015) (affirming dismissal under Rule 41(b) after Plaintiff was specifically warned that his case would be dismissed if he did not respond to the government’s motion to dismiss).

IT IS SO ORDERED.
